PRAB Subcommittee Discusses Methods of Controlling Pollution

by Sid Kastner

The Parks and Recreation Advisory Board's subcommittee on pollution held a public meeting at the Municipal building, Thursday evening, February 11, which was conspicuous by the public's absence. The subcommittee met to discuss further an anti-burning ordinance referred back to it by the city council, and also to consider the upcoming ordinances dealing with water pollution and noise.

In its study of these ordinances, the special subcommittee has brought together a number of authorities, probably impossible to equal in any other city the size of Greenbelt. Among its contributors to date have been Roger Kanerva, a specialist in the Maryland Department of Water Resources; Daniel Charter, Chief of the Maritime Pollution Control Branch at U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters; John Koontz, Chief of the Air Quality Control Division of Prince Georges County; Mike Davis, a professional environmental planner; Virginia Moryadas, an urban planner; and Stephen Polaschik, an official in the Water Quality Office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

These people have put in much time and work in the five months of the group's existence. The subcommittee, chaired by Mrs. Rhea Cohen, was set up on Sept. 24 of last year, and has met three times before this latest meeting, with work going on in member's homes in the interim. It has studied the three anti-pollution ordinances originally proposed by the city manager's staff, and on November 5 submitted a report to PRAB which suggested amendments to each of the ordinances. In that report it recommended that "Greenbelt should have the most stringent anti-pollution ordinances permissible by law", though at the same time favoring injunctions and liens as penalties, rather than jail sentences.

In this fourth meeting, attended by city solicitor Emmett Nanna, the members decided that a strict anti-burning ordinance, which had been referred back to them, was basically satisfactory and will be resubmitted through PRAB to the city council. In this regard, Nanna said.

Wm. Gullett to Speak at Twin Pines Annual Meeting

William Gullett, new County Executive, will be the featured speaker at Twin Pines annual meeting Tuesday, February 23 in the Greenbelt Library. Mr. Gullett has been scheduled to speak at 9:15 p.m. in order that people may meet and speak with him after the meeting. All are invited.

The meeting, Twin Pines 14th Annual, will include reports and the election of board and committee members of a cooperative organization that has increased its assets over 27% in one year and returned nearly $110,000 to the members in dividends during 1970. Organized to finance the resales of GHI homes, Twin Pines is now expanding into first mortgage financing of homes in Greenbelt and nearby areas.

Nominations for the board of directors are: Mrs. Sonia Garin, William Lathom, Matt Vanderzon, Mrs. Leatrice (Peg) Wainscott, and John Webb. Supervisory Committee candidates are: Michael Chew, Harvey Geller, Manvern Shock, and Jack Szafran. And for the Nominating Committee the nominees are: Mrs. Jule Churchill, Henry Fisher, Mrs. Sue Lange, John Maffay, and Charles McDonald.

Marathon Race Results

Three runners from Greenbelt completed the 26 mile marathon race held, Sunday, February 14, in Beltsville, sponsored by the Beltsville JAYCEES to promote physical fitness. The Greenbelt finishers all met the qualifying standards for the Boston Marathon (3:30) in finishing in the following order: (32) Larry Noel 3:03:43, (44) Martin Greenbaum 3:10:43, and (75) Mike Talbot 3:28:38.

In the largest marathon field in recent Washington history, 185 started but the 34 degree weather and hills reduced the field to 123 finishers. Jack Fultz of the U.S. Coast Guard, Arlington, Va. won a thrilling victory in 2:29:58 over Augustin Calle, Colombia, S.A.

City Notes

Following the receipt by council of a letter from a concerned citizen, the Public Works Dept. inspected a hole in the lake where the ducks have taken a stand, to determine whether it offered danger to skaters. On the day of the inspection, since the hole had frozen over completely, city crewmen attempted to chop out a new hole nearer to the shoreline. The ducks, however, refused to move. Hoping to find skaters more cooperative than the ducks, the city crew then erected warning signs around the duck hole, as well as marking it off with a wide layer of the mulch from Christmas trees that had been put through the city's chipper machine.

Two police officers with the Greenbelt Police Dept. have recently resigned. Officer Anthony Enrico's appointment was terminated effective January 23. Officer Michael Kerr's resignation will be effective February 1.

PG School Board Authorizes New Site for High School

The Prince Georges County Board of Education on February 9 approved a resolution authorizing its staff to purchase 40 acres of the Smith-Ewing North property for the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Senior High School. Public announcement of this decision by school board president, Ruth Wolfe, came at the Capital Improvements Budget hearing last Thursday night.

The site is located on the westerly portion of the triangle, zoned for single-family housing, north of Greenbelt Road and east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway (see map). The next step, according to school board officials, is to work out a contract of sale with the owners of the property, Smith and Ewing, with whom negotiations have been going on.

The budget, which allots $8,273,000 for the high school, calls for the 2,400-pupil capacity school to be opened in the 1973-74 school year. The school is expected to relieve DuVal, Parkdale, High Point, and Northwestern high schools.

Just prior to the announcement, Rhea Cohen, on behalf of the Greenbelt Save Our Community Committee (SOCC), thanked the school board for including the high school in the budget and hoped that speedy acquisition of a new site would enable the board to advance the opening date to September 1972.

She also suggested that the school board consider a school-park complex on the Smith-Ewing tract. She noted that such a complex could be assisted by the mandatory open-space dedication provisions which would be applicable to an adjacent apartment subdivision (Greenbriar).

History of Controversy

SOCC was one of the civic organizations, along with Greenbelt Homes, Inc., which fought hard to have the school board reverse a decision taken by an earlier board in 1966 to put a three-school complex on parcel 2 (land between Ridge Road and the B-W Parkway). With the full support of the city council and public opinion, the movement to seek an alternate site was capped with success last October when the school board decided to move the senior high school but to retain parcel 2 for construction of an elementary school and a junior high school.

The major objections to parcel 2, voiced at a September public hearing, stemmed from inadequate access to the site except through narrow residential streets, potential traffic hazards to young pedestrians, and lack of sewage facilities. (Gravity sewers hooked up to Glenora development on Smith-Ewing South will serve the FDR School). GHI at one time attempted to stop the action by filing a law suit, but was unsuccessful.

Then the issue flared again in the spring of 1970 when plans for school construction became imminent. Petitions were signed by over 1,500 residents, protesting the parcel 2 site; and the State legislature, mainly through the efforts of State Senator Edward T. Conroy, adopted a resolution signed by the Governor calling for a moratorium on the construction of a senior high school until alternate sites were explored. This was followed by a decision of the county commissioners, led by Francis Francois, to withhold construction funds from the 1970 Capital Improvements Budget.

It is now expected that the county council will release those construction funds.

Other Budget Speaker

Dickie Spurgeon, speaking on behalf of the Springhill Lake Elementary School PTA, expressed concern that the service rooms at the school no longer could adequately support the increased enrollment. Spurgeon, vice-president of the PTA, said the library, kitchen, cafeteria and offices are overused. One of the most pressing needs, he said, is storage space for the various types of school equipment, and larger quarters for school functions. He appealed to the Board to seek a solution to this problem.

Gullett to Talk On Environment

Prince Georges County Executive, William W. Gullett, will discuss environmental issues with interested citizens at a public meeting at the Greenbelt Library meeting room on Thursday, February 25, at 8:30 p.m.

The meeting, which will emphasize area public transportation needs, is sponsored by the Prince Georges Environment Coalition, an informal federation of citizens and citizens' groups actively involved with environmental protection. The public is invited.

Achievement-- and Implementation

What everyone hopes will be the final act in a six-year struggle to secure an acceptable location for a Greenbelt senior high school is now taking place. The Prince Georges County Board of Education has announced that it is proceeding with plans to purchase a 40-acre tract for the school site in the Smith-Ewing north property, on Greenbelt Rd. east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

Not enough praise can be directed toward the current school board for its forthright handling of this problem. A willingness to recognize the city's position, a desire to get at all the facts, and a concern over the need to move ahead promptly characterized the school board's latest decision. It was statesmanship of the highest order, and in these days when criticism is easily levied against government agencies for kowtowing to special interests, it is a pleasure to draw attention to one agency which has become more, rather than less, responsive to public opinion.

We are certain that all elements in the city of Greenbelt share our pleasure and will do whatever they can to expedite construction of the school.

Now, with the resolution of the school's location, the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission also has the opportunity to engage in an act of statesmanship. Under the mandatory open-space dedication provisions, 10 percent of newly subdivided land for apartment development must be set aside for park purposes. In the case of Greenbriar apartment project, which is to be located adjacent to the senior high school, MNCPPC has indicated that in lieu of the land dedication it will accept 5 percent or $35,000 of the assessed valuation of the new project.

We urge the MNCPPC to use this $35,000 to help purchase whatever additional acreage is needed to provide a school-park complex in the Smith-Ewing tract. We have only to see the problems raised in Springhill Lake by the failure to provide open-space land for recreational purposes, to realize the importance of facing such problems before and not after development of the tract.

Silent Majority

To the Editor:

In reply to Mr. Shinderman's self-impressing self-listings, this Jim Smith has more to do constructively in these crucial times for the membership of GHI than to shoot-the-shed with Nathan Shinderman. The biggest and most colossal "bungling and bumbling" mistake the board ever made was their self-sponsored new house construction program. This item alone required a Suburban Trust Co. loan of $445,642.07 (comptroller figures). The board's talents, wherever they lie, should have been directed towards maintaining our homes under government mortgage. The verbal and written ammunition for board's defeat is stored in the dry magazines of the silent majority of GHI's membership. At the appropriate times and proper places the salvos will be heard and understood throughout Old Greenbelt.

Good and Gentle Man

To the Editor:

To those who knew Joe Haslinger, his passing will leave a void. This good and gentle man touched the hearts of all who came in contact with him.

We join with his many other friends in the community in expressing our sympathy to his wonderful wife Henrietta and their family. For us, the loss is somewhat tempered by the knowledge that we were indeed fortunate in having known this rare man.

May his soul rest in peace.

The Costa Family

Thanks

To the Editor:

We would like to thank our many friends in Greenbelt who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement. Your charity was a great comfort, and will always be remembered.

The family of

Chivalry Lives

To the Editor:

Chivalry can never die, — as long as there are male individuals, who — when greeting the opposite sex, just naturally tip their hats. And I happen to know two of them right here in Greenbelt; and tho both are male, their skin is not the same color.

One works for our Sanitary Department; the other, I believe, is an athletic instructor outside of Greenbelt.

I find it so very refreshing that I must pass it along to others. I even believe Women's Lib would not only approve, but smile favorably on this.

I like to think of this sort of thing just before falling to sleep. It seems to beget a quiet confidence and serenity so fiercely needed in the midst of our turbulent world atmosphere. I guess what I'm really trying to say is that the nature of mankind is basically filled with goodness.

J. T. Haslinger Sr.

Long-time resident Joseph T. Haslinger Sr., 11-N Ridge, died February 11 after a heart attack. Age 73, he was a member of St. Hugh's Church and the Greenbelt American Legion Post 136.

Mr. Haslinger, who retired from the Navy in 1953 with the rank of lieutenant, was a veteran of both World Wars and the Korean conflict. After he retired from the Navy, he worked in visual aid programs with the Robert J. Brady Co. of Washington.

Mr. Haslinger is survived by his wife, Henrietta; five sons, the Rev. Joseph T. of Washington, Robert H. of Gaithersburg, John P. and Henry D. of Greenbelt, and Thomas R., serving with the Air Force in Vietnam; five daughters, Henrietta M. Bradley, of Riverdale, Joan E. Mohan, of Ithaca, N.Y., Nancy L., Mary M. and Andrea C., all of Greenbelt; a sister, Marie S., of Washington; and three grandchildren.

City Manager Criticized

To the Editor:

It's too bad that Mr. Giese's memo on the SHL golf course was not printed until last week. Coming after the Skolniks' well-researched and even-handed article, it looks a bit pale. The discussion of the grantsmanship game is excellent, but when Mr. Giese turns to answering his critics he gets into trouble.

If I were a city council member, I would want the facts on which he bases his allegations and opinions. And I would want proof that he has seriously taken into account such facts as the findings in the Greenhorne & O'Mara report. His memo, as reported in the News Review, doesn't provide either.

I question particularly the following:

1. The statement that SHL "may be able to build more apartments off of the flood plain and count the flood plain as required green space . . ." It is my impression that, because of the new floodplain regulations, to do so would require either a zoning action or drastic alteration of the floodplain. Besides, the reason we're contemplating building on the golf course is the claim that there's no other space left. Show me the place big enough to slip in apartment buildings and I'll show you the location of the new recreation center!
2. The claim that the additional expense of building on a floodplain is "usually not a significant factor." What does Mr. Giese know that allows him to disregard the probable expense of complying with the new law, and the Greenhorne & O'Mara suggestion that footings could add up to 10% to the cost of the building? How much money does he think is significant?
3. Mr. Giese's depiction of Braden Field and the stream valley park as "fine flood plain recreation areas." I've enjoyed skating on the ponds on Braden Field. My son refuses to play there, saying, "Oh Ma, Braden Field is always soggy." The ball diamond was regraded in the last year to make it drier, but I'd like to know why Mr. Giese thinks the rest of the area is so great. The lower half of the stream valley park can best be described as a mudhole. I do agree with Mr. Giese that the golf course (at least the part of it that doesn't flood regularly) could be superior to these. That's not saying much.
4. Mr. Giese's total blackout concerning Greenhorne & O'Mara's observations on the value of floodplains as recreation areas. If he disagrees, rather than ignoring them I wish he's give us some solid facts in rebuttal.

Mr. Giese has a right to advocate anything he wants, but his memo would have been more useful if he had given facts in answer to the negative arguments rather than ignoring or dismissing them. Both the council and the people of Greenbelt need to know the whole story.

Hard Bargains

To the Editor:

Petitions to rezone Parcels 1 & 2 to R-30 (garden apartments) are scheduled for a March 19 hearing. Before that, on March 1, there will be a public hearing on whether or not to include these and other properties in the 10-year water and sewers program. Others will decide for us — if we do not speak for ourselves — whether we shall have high density or public open space in that part of Greenbelt. Inclusion in the 10-year sewer plan and rezoning would make it feasible for the owners to build on it or to sell the land to other developers, rather than to sell it to the City for landfill space, recreation use and restoration of the greenbelt (all of which the city manager has suggested for the Council to consider).

The City Manager's Dec. 4 report to the Council cites the high cost for public facilities (road, sewer and schools) to serve the properties and asks, "Would public acquisition of the land be cheaper in the long run than the providing of public facilities to serve development on the land?"

Before March 1, it is up to the Council to decide. Shall we pay the high tax and personal inconvenience for: 1) heavy traffic on five now dead-ended street; 2) trucking out our trash at $31,600 per year; 3) over $5 million worth of roads, schools and sewers; and 4) increasing over-use of the crowded lake park? Or shall we request that Parcels 1 & 2 be excluded from the 10-year plan so that the property will be available to the City at raw land cost for an ultimate savings?

Let's drive hard bargains. Let's press developers in the eastern, western and central part of the city to dedicate open land and public-use buildings to Greenbelt. What we cannot get through pressure or trade-offs, let's buy; but shrewdly.

Rhea Cohen

MSGR. BARONI TO SPEAK AT ST. HUGH'S MEETING

The St. Hugh's Parish Council has scheduled a nationally-known speaker to address a "general meeting" to be held on Monday, Feb. 22, in Grenoble Hall.

Msgr. Geno C. Baroni, Director of the Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs, sponsored by the U. S. Catholic Conference and funded by a Ford Foundation grant, will speak on "Issues and Challenges Facing Black and White Americans in the '70s."

The general public is invited and admission is free. The meeting will be in the basement of the St. Hugh's church building at 8 P.M.

Towards a Better Future

To the Editor:

This week marks the first birthday for the Greenbelt Save Our Community Committee. The members and leaders of that organization should be proud indeed for a year's effort which culminated recently in the removal of a senior high school from parcel 2 to a more suitable location east of the Parkway.

Having worked so hard to achieve its goal, one might expect an organization such as SOCC to sit back and enjoy. Such should not be the case, however. The goals and purposes of SOCC remain. They are to promote citizen activity and support for sound governmental decisions, affecting the health, economy, ecology and general welfare of Greenbelt and its immediate environs. We ask for continued citizen support in carrying out these purposes. The immediate future and beyond can be very exciting times for those Greenbelters who truly enjoy what we have here and are willing to strive to preserve it.

We endorse wholeheartedly the News Review editorial of February 4, 1971, calling for bold and imaginative steps to secure the much sought-after belt of green or buffer around our city.

We recommend for reading for all Greenbelt citizens a December 4, 1970 memorandum from the city manager to the city council. In it he urges council consideration for obtaining control over large portions of our still undeveloped land, and develops a sound economical basis for action.

We are heartened by the District Council's reservations concerning the Perimeter Road, which they noted in adopting the Greenbelt Master Plan.

These, and other signs, point the way to a better future for Greenbelt. It will continue to take hard work and widespread citizen support.

OPEN LETTER TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION:

Five and a half years ago, Greenbelt's citizens and City Council first opposed the proposed location of a large senior high school in Parcel 2, in the interior of the oldest part of the city. One year ago the protest was renewed by the Save Our Community Committee. On Thursday, February 11, 1971 at the Capital Improvements Budget hearing, SOCC representatives were the pleased recipients of your surprise announcement about a new Greenbelt site.

Your October resolution to reverse a previous Board's decision and to find a new location for the school was a courageous one; your choice of the Smith-Ewing tract, with its good access and available sewer service, is a wise one.

We appreciate and thank you for the respect you have shown the people and the plan of America's first model city.

THE GREENBELT SAVE OUR COMMUNITY COMMITTEE
Rhea Cohen and William F. Lathom, Co-Chmn.

GHI Board Turns Down Plan For More Parking at 18 Ridge

by Al Skolnik

A proposed parking plan to provide 10 additional spaces for the 18 court Ridge fell innocent victim to the stresses produced by Greenbelt Homes, Inc.'s straitened budgetary situation. On a split vote, the GHI board at its February 11 meeting voted not to expend the estimated $1,500 to $1,800 needed to carve out an additional parking lot from the grassed area at the entrance to the court.

The majority of the board, consisting of Darwin Beck, Katherine Keene, Dave Lange, Alex Chavrid, Tom White, and Nat Shinderman, opposed the expenditure primarily on the grounds that the 1971 budget had made no provisions for parking lot expenditures.

"We are operating on a very tight budget," Beck said. "The membership made very clear last December that it wanted us to economize in every way possible," Katherine Keene added. Other comments were that if this proposal were approved it would be difficult to turn down other parking proposals. With the corporation only in the second month of the fiscal year, the breach in the budget by the end of the year could be considerable, it was warned.

Steve Polaschik, who along with Norman Weyel and Charles Schwan, supported the proposal, argued that "we just can't stop doing things for the membership," because of budget limitations. Schwan said that the parking lot expenditure could be made part of the capital improvement budget.

Weyel, chairman of the parking committee, emphasized that the parking situation in the 18 court is very critical. He noted how the members in the court were very cooperative in meeting their crisis. He referred to the fact that the members park double in the court with the understanding among themselves that cars will be moved around upon request.

All board members sympathized with the plight of the 18 court, and suggestions were made for alternate plans which would not cost as much. The matter was referred back to the parking committee for further consideration.

Southway Parking

On another parking matter, the board heard Jim Smith (4-H Southway) describe the parking problems of GHI members living on the west side of Southway. "We have no off-street parking," he said, "and the amount of on-street parking is limited because people will not park opposite the newly constructed median strip because of fear of car damage." He proposed that the end row homeowners be permitted to construct individual driveways for off-street parking. This matter also was referred to the parking committee.

Twin Pines Mortgage Insurance

The problems of Twin Pines Savings and Loan Association in trying to get insurance on members' deposits from the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corporation came to the fore. Since MS-SIC would take over the operations of Twin Pines in case the latter became insolvent, MSSIC wanted to know if the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) would waive the priority of its first mortgage on GHI, also if GHI would waive its prior rights in the event of Twin Pines insolvency or the paying off or refinancing of the GNMA mortgage. MS-SIC had indicated its reluctance to insure Twin Pines' deposits as long as Twin Pines makes loans to GHI members with only an assignment of the members' equity as collateral for the loan.

Both GHI and GNMA advised that they could not waive their prior rights. The GHI board, however, indicated that it would gladly enter into a contract with Twin Pines, similar to the one now in effect with Greenbelt Credit Union, which would recognize Twin Pines equity in the event of default of the member in payments either to GHI or Twin Pines.

Orientation meeting, Feb. 19

The board discussed preparations for the member-orientation meeting to be held on Friday, February 19, at North End School, starting at 8 p.m. One item on the agenda will be newly-adopted yardline definitions. The purpose of these definitions is to allow members to determine their yardline boundaries for purposes of planting hedge rows and fencing, while maintaining certain common open areas and rights-of-way.

Highlights of the definition are:

(1) An access lane with a minimum of 5 feet shall be required between GHI property line and gardenside or side yard lines (with certain exceptions) and between adjoining gardenside or side yard lines of two rows of houses.

(2) The gardenside and service-yard line boundaries shall be determined by natural and man-made boundaries such as open drainage ditches, swales, paved walkways, driveways, and parking areas.

(3) The maximum gardenside depth allowable for both brick and frame homes shall be 75 feet. The maximum gardenside yard depth between parallel rows of houses with adjoining gardenside yards shall be determined by the 1942 plats for frame homes and the 1938 hedge line for brick homes.

(4) The maximum depth of a side yard for end frame homes shall be determined by the 1942 plats up to a maximum of 25 feet from end of house, if yard line is not shown. The side-yard depth for adjoining side yards of two end frame homes shall also be equidistant, and an access lane shall bisect these yards. (Special regulations govern homes with attached heating plant).

(5) The side yard depth for brick end homes shall be determined by the 1938 hedge line. (Special regulations govern homes with attached garages).

Early Quit

Adhering to some new ground rules laid down for expediting meetings, the board finished its business at the early hour of 10:15. Among the new rules were presentation of motions before discussions begin, limiting board members to speaking only twice on each motion, and written recommendations from the manager distributed before the meeting.

Model Car Building

Members of the Jaycee Youth Program will meet to build model cars on Saturday, Feb. 20, starting at 9 a.m. at the Jaycee Center near St. Hugh's. Later in the day they will race the cars they have built.

Boys'-Girls' Club News

by John Armstrong

The Greenbelt Boys' and Girls' Club may finally have reached its long standing goal of finding out what keeps the adults of this community from participating in the program. Attending the last meeting of GBGC on February 5 were only five parents, all of the officials and a handful of the members of the board.

The parents who did come were anxious to know what kept other parents from attending, since over 250 were called by the board members. The group present conjectured that there were those who felt that (1) an overwhelming number of people were already participating in the program, (2) the program was very well organized and needed little help, (3) there was insufficient communication.

The fact is GBGC needs many more parents to become involved in the program. (GBGC is not directly associated with the Recreation Department and other Greenbelt organizations). Funds for the program come from fund-raising projects. Conducting the program are volunteers and no one is paid for the many hours he or she spends with the children.

A committee was formed to explain the program to parents. Parents are needed for transportation, for supervising substitute coaches when a coach is sick or out of town, or to help in a fund raising campaign.

Greenbelt Grab-bag

by Punchin' Judy

Space exploration was a very popular subject of science fiction writers a generation or so ago. It's fun to read the stories now and to contrast them with actuality. The science aspect was good enough, not too surprising considering that the present space program is based on technology already existing at that time.

What is really far out in those stories is the human factor, the way the fictional characters reacted. In one tale, for instance, the first man on the moon (a midget - for weight reasons, apparently), walked alone afterwards. Even if other people weren't too awed to speak to him, the haunted lonely look in his eyes would have discouraged them. In another story, time practically came to a halt. The inhabitants of earth stood watching with bared heads, and war was no more. The space-man's family also came in for a share of the drama. He was a bachelor, of course, but he had a father. And Dad stood under the night sky, tense, proud, and alone, straining his eyes for the little flash in the sky that signaled the return of his son's space ship.

Of course you see what's missing: it's television! How lonely can the astronaut get when he knows several million people are watching him? And time doesn't come to a halt, it's just a pause for station identification and a message from Bang! the space drink astronauts cry for! War doesn't end, but combat news gets crowded off the tube for a couple of hours. As for the flyers' families, they have cameras whirring at them too, wives doing the shopping, kids waving from the station wagon, and mom and dad in front of the TV set, on top of which sits a framed photograph of their famous son.

The most impressive difference, though, is the relaxed attitude of our men in space. I recall a story in which the first moon explorers found that our satellite was nothing but a plywood mock-up. One of them committed suicide, the other returned home hopelessly insane.

Ridiculous! Can you imagine our unflappable spacemen being bent out of shape by a triviality like that? Come with me on a imaginary trip to Mars. Neil Headstrong, Glenn Glenn, and Alan Dalmation of Project Ares have just landed on the red planet and a surprise is waiting for them. Let the cameras roll!

Mission Control: Repeat that, will you Alan? It sounded as though you said Mars is a big red balloon.

Dalmation: That's right, Houston. It's a blow-up with canals painted on it.

M.C.: Move over a little more to the left, we're losing you on the TV screen.

Headstrong: I see some figures moving in the distance. Wait until I get my binoculars.

M.C.: Uh, Roger.

Headstrong: I see what they're doing, they're repainting the lines on the canals.

Dalmation: This surface is so bouncy, I'm going to try my pogo stick.

M.C.: We just got word that you're being made an honorary member of the National Association of Pogo stick jumpers.

Headstrong: Woops, he jumped clear off the ground.

M.C.: That was fed into our computer and it's O.K. You'll meet him in orbit.

Glenn Glenn: We're about to plant the flag. Here goes. Oh, oh! Forgot it was a balloon. I'm afraid we punctured Mars. All the air is coming out.

M.C.: O.K. We read you good. Don't worry about the puncture. Just slap a patch over it and we'll blow it up again on the next mission.

And as Mars deflates slowly in the west, we pause for a word from the sponsor. Not for anything would we give up the live full color coverage of our space flights. And as for the commercials, you can always go to the refrigerator for a glass of Bang!, the space drink astronauts . . .

Nominations Solicited For '71 Outstanding Young Man

The Greenbelt Jaycees are announcing the inclusion of an Outstanding Young Man Award in their portfolio for 1971. The award is designed to recognize a person in Greenbelt who has given of his time and efforts "Over and above the call of duty." He is a person who is trying to make Greenbelt a better place to live, work and play.

The Jaycees are looking for a person who believes that "Service to Humanity is the Best Work of Life," part of the Jaycee Creed. He need not be a Jaycee.

Anyone wishing to nominate someone who fits these qualifications is asked to contact Robert Hardie of the Greenbelt Jaycees, 474-6199, or leave the information at the Greenbelt Jaycee Center, 147 Crescent Road.

Our Neighbors

Elaine Skolnik - 474-6060

Helen McGlauchlin and Al Skolnik made it two wins in a row when they racked up a .750 score on last Friday's duplicate bridge session. Second place went to Sam and Claire Jacobs. Next game: Friday, February 26.

Our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Henrietta Haslinger, 11-Ridge, on the death of her husband, Joseph Haslinger, Sr.

Greenbelt Junior High seventh grader, Steven Herlich, 100 Peitwinkle, received an Honorable Mention award for his entries in the Washington Scholastic Art Awards Regional Exhibit. His "Anatomical Study in Pencil (pelvis and complete leg)," and ink print sketch of Shakespeare are on display at the art gallery in the Washington Hecht Co. store.

It's a girl for Mr. and Mrs. Larry Weisslor, 5-B Ridge. Gloria made her debut on February 3, weighing 6 lbs. 10 oz. She joins Joel and Carl.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Case, 101 Rosewood, announce the arrival of a daughter. Sharon Marie was born February 4 and weighed 7 lbs. 4 oz. Her proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Vane Glendenning of Greenbelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Barnett, 45-F Ridge, are grandparents for the third time. They recently traveled to Denver, Colorado to see their daughter and son-in-law, Jane and Lenny Spitzer and new grandson. Ari David arrived February 5, weighing 5 lbs. 12½ oz. Ari's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Blum, also reside in Greenbelt.

Delighted to hear that former councilman Bill Hoff, 71-E Ridge is home from the hospital and is feeling fine.

A speedy recovery to Mrs. Audrey Stern, 31 Lakeside, who underwent surgery at George Washington Hospital.

Robert Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson, 6 Woodland Way, a senior at Archbishop Carroll High School, was in Dallas, Texas last week at a guest of the Taylor Publishing Company. As Editor-in-Chief of the school's year book, which the firm is publishing, he reviewed the lay-out and plans for this year's new-type book and toured all the facilities of the plant. He also toured the city of Dallas, including the JFK Memorial.

Navy Lieutenant Commander Daniel B. Branch Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Branch, 13-H Ridge, is serving aboard the Polaris submarine USS James K. Polk, now in its 19th deterrent patrol.

na mentioned that Hyattsville for example has a comprehensive ordinance against burning. The subcommittee members clearly felt that the passing of this ordinance was needed urgently in view of the imminent development of the Smith-Ewing tract.

Penalties

They went on to discuss the questions of handling water pollution and littering. Mrs. Cohen noted that a year has passed since the oil spill on the lake, with some action not yet being taken. A proposed city ordinance on this subject was introduced in October by councilman Joel Katz, which bans dumping of pollutants and imposes fines or jail terms for infractions. Nanna and others suggested that city assessment against offending property-owners and fines against vehicles might serve better, to provide for damages. To deal with the general problem of seepage of pollutants, it was also suggested that an existing county grading ordinance could be enforced by the city.

Suitable penalties were also examined in the case of littering violations. It was proposed that the individuals responsible for littering should pay the cost of cleaning up; Nanna's opinion was that this was a valid approach. He mentioned in this connection that many municipalities have a "vacant lot" ordinance, which requires the offending property-owner to clean up or the city will do it and add the cost to taxes.

Noise Pollution

Another proposed ordinance that has been of most immediate interest to several citizens is one that would deal with noise due to model motorboats on the lake, minibikes, model airplanes, etc. It was pointed out that minibikes are already illegal if operated, without license, on public areas. The powered model boats on the lake have been operating under a special exception from the city: Mrs. Nancy Neupert explained that objections have been raised to the noise of the particular motor used, not necessarily to the activity as such. Daniel Charter felt the whole operation needed to be examined in light of the existing city law against powered boats on the lake, since the small boats also give off pollutants. The subcommittee will go over the proposed anti-noise ordinance more thoroughly in its next meeting.

The label says "permanent press." But your experience says differently. Maybe the gap between promise and reality is in your dryer. If it's old, it treats permanent press clothes like regular clothes. Which can only lead to the ironing board.

A new electric dryer, on the other hand, has a special permanent press setting. First the clothes are tumbled dry at the proper temperature. Then the heat shuts off but tumbling and fluffing continue. This cool-down phase prevents baked-in wrinkles and helps bring the clothes back to their original contours.

When your clothes are ready, a buzzer sounds. In fact, some models will even re-fluff them for you every 5 minutes (for up to 2½ hours) until you answer the call.

Today's electric dryers also include a convertible model that can run on regular house current, without rewiring, or on 240 volts. And another that doesn't require outside venting.

Visit your appliance dealer, or see the many makes and models at the Appliance Showroom, Pepco Building, 10th & E Streets, N.W.
